PROCESS
The Arts Council’s Strategic Plan for 2015-2020 has evolved through a thoughtful, deliberate process using many steps and many participants including consulting services, community and full board input.

- In 2012, we reviewed of our mission, vision, and values statements.
- In 2013, we developed a Communications Plan to clearly identify all of our desired constituents to be served.
- In 2014, we received a Taproot grant for professional services to conduct external interviews and a SWOT review as preparation for writing the strategic plan.
- In June of 2014, the Arts Council’s full board contributed to the plan through discussions at the Taproot presentation followed with facilitated discussion in September 2014.
- Simultaneously, we have benefited from the information gathered and work performed to date on the County Master Arts Plan.
- Beginning in early 2014, the board’s ad hoc Strategic Plan Committee reviewed the achievements and challenges of the 2009 Strategic Plan and determined the desired structure for the new plan. The committee then carefully crafted and vetted goals and objectives in three broad mission pillars and steered the refinement of plan language.

MAJOR STRATEGIC ISSUES FOR CONSIDERATION
The purpose of the strategic plan is to set a course for the Arts Council through a clear statement of our mission, goals, and objectives. The plan also helps us describe our role in Fairfax County. It intends to be aspirational as well as realistic; and to provide a vision of where we hope to go in the future as well as a framework within which to work. The Strategic Plan is not meant to be a marketing plan or an operating plan, but to give us a vision of who we want to be and the flexible guidance to make progress toward that vision.

Through review of the Arts Council’s existing role, the position and needs of the arts within Fairfax County, the County’s own outlook and expectations, and the comparative work of similar local arts agencies around the country, our task was, as Taproot so aptly stated, “to synthesize what would work best for Fairfax into a coherent strategy and a viable operating model.”

Considerations over the course of our discussions have included:
- Clear separation and definition of financial vs. non-financial services
- Greater effort to reach and serve more diverse arts and ethnic communities
- Aggressive goal setting for revenue generation that would enable $1 million in grants distribution (including strategies that address public and private funding).
